If you live in the Stone Bank area or happen to be passing through that way consider supporting the North Lake Country farmers market. The market, located at Tyme Out Youth & Ministry Center, corner of HWY C & K in Stone Bank, is open the first and third Thursday of the month from 3:30-6:30 through October 7. This is a combined effort of Tyme Out, Tall Pines Conservancy, Merton TownHall Library and SUNSEED Eco-Education Center.

A unique aspect of this market is its goal to serve youth. Once established it is our intent to offer youth the opportunity to engage in the wonder-filled journey from stardust to soil, seed, soup and salad, experiencing the satisfaction of being part of the process. Learning how *"nature thrives and grows through life-supportive relationships," can bring insight and inspiration to develop healthy ways of relating. Assisting growers harvest and prepare produce for marketing, helping at the market, learning to prepare and preserve foods, are some of the activities young people can engage in.

Our first step is to establish a market. You can help make it happen.
